The Third Day's Pestivities Closing with a Grand Concert and Ball-

Crowds Throng the Pavillon Park from Midday till Midnight-Children's Day-The Pyrotechnic Display a Brilliant Specess-

Clear skies ushered in another day of the Maifest celebration. It was the brightest day of the festival and the best. A fresh breeze blew southward across the pavilion grounds and imparted a zest of enjoyment to everything.

The children were on the grounds early, and the amusements prepared for them were very popular. Youth and age became mixed up rather promiscuously, and it was occasionally difficult to say whether gray hairs or golden were the younger. The children were greatly in the majority, however, and monopolized the morning and afternoon sports. Yesterday afternoon while some of the sports were in preparation the manage-ment of the Maifest got together and finally decided to continue the festival over Sanday and up to Como hours Mon-day night. They have thought it advisable to do this on several grounds, the principal one being the total loss of the first day, occassioned by the rain. This under discussion before, the benutiful weather and promise of yesterday finally settled the matter and the Maifest will close Monday night. The award of the prizes, however, which are on exhibition at the payllion, was made last night according to the programme. This was thought proper, in consideration to those who had already cast their votes, although the contest would have been more interesting if it could have been prolonged until the end of the festival,

The games as published took place and traction. Various sports not on the programme were in progress all the day and oon after dinner those of more importance came off. The judges of the games and awards were Rev. Mr. Baumann, J. J. Garrett, P. H. Tansey, C. Schmidt, Rudolph Kuhn and Don Adams, The latter gentleman starter and Mr. Tansey was judge of the finish. Rev. Mr. Baumann made the awards with appropriate little speeches.

The first race was the egg race for the Rosa Gulden In this Misses Laura Mayer, Luella Wood, Minnie Hoffman, Annie Hoffman and Amelia Schanewert participated, Miss Minniel Hoffman and Laura Mayer were first and second respectively.

In the fox-hole hunt, first heat, Geo

Dampers took the first; second head Font Loving; and third heat, Ed Kuhn won first and Tom Jones second prize; The climbing of the greased pole cited a good deal of merriment and the candidates were numerous, for a full baseball outfit was the prize. A good many came within a few inches of the prize only to sink back exhausted. Erpest Cartwright was finally victor and Charles Thompson came in for second. The climbing was tried again, but nine competitors retired without reaching the and it was discontinued.

The wheelbarrow race was run blindfolded and was the source of a great deal of fun. Tom Blair and Ernest Cartwright were declared first and second. In the sack race Ernest Cartwright came in shead with Harry Bound and Dave Dawkins second and third. Little Bernie Newlin and Stella Edrington won the two firsts in the little girls' races and each were awarded elegent music boxes.

The misses race was said to be one of the most attractive events of the day, and the contestants were as numerous Among those who participated were Stella Meyer, Minnie Hoffman, Leona Mendel, Ross Pollard, Mamie Spencer, Letchworth, Jessie Spencer, Josephine Guiden, Carrie Rosenfeld, Minnie Adsms, Carrie Becton, Viola Poole, Gertie O'Leary, Rosa Gulden, Sophronie Stevens, May Morgan, Lens Hanley, Laura Mayer, Amelia Meyer, Louise Barnbardt, Mattie Desha, Nellie King. Lucille King, Anna Hyberger, Jessie Chambliss, Stella Hochstader, Rosa Stevers, Bernie Newtin, Mins Purdey, Della Steinfeldt and Emma Hoffman. Viola Poole received the first prize, which was a complete set of evening parlor games, and Lena Mendel took the sec-

With the capture of the greased pig and a rattling game of football the sports of the day were closed. The whole time had been filled with enjoyment for the festers and there was hardly a quiet per-

At 8:30 o'clock the strains of the grand promenade floated out over the park and called in the wanderers. Before the march was over the pavillon was circled round and round with promenadors. It seemed as if the strains had reached the city for soon after the people began to pour into the grounds in rowds. A waltz was struck up and the tall was fairly under way. From that time on until time was called, it took but moment to cover the floor with light feet. The number that attended hast American.

THE MAIFEST CROWDS night was about the same as the night before, but they were more evenly di-vided. Indeed, the pretty faces and costumes in the hall were almost in the majority.

At 10:30 o'clock the display of fireworks was inaugurated by a shricking rocket and the music halted for a mo-Rockets, Roman candles and ment. clored lights were then in abundance, and there were a few set pieces of great beauty, among which the Lone Star was displayed in burning colors. From that time the dance and the fireworks were dovethiled into each other until the pyrotechnics were exhausted.

There was considerable rivalry between the friends of Miss Emily Monnig and Miss Ida Steinfeldt, who were the only ones in the race for the most popular lady, and the votes went up considerable under its influence. Miss Mounig led in the morning when the voting opened and still led when it was schedto close last night, but Miss Steinfeldt had drawn up on her quarter a little. Miss Monnig crossed the line some twenty-three votes ahead. Mr. Westland led for the most popular gentleman with R. Kuhn a close cond. The E. M. Daggett hose company was close behind the M. T. Johnson hook and ladder company, while the painters and decorators led the knights of labor by only a few votes.

According to the decision yesterday by the management, the Maifest will continue until Monday night. The programme to-day will open with a grand concert of sacred music at 1 c'clock. The day will be one huge sociable with a musical programme running all through it. A large attendance is expected to be on hand and a general good time is anticipated.

MAIFEST NOTES. The lack of power on the electric read, caused by the damaged dynamo, is making a great deal of delay in the heavily loaded cars that run back and forth from the Maifest. Messrs, J. E. Westland and W. L.

Letchford were floor managers at the grand ball last night. Miss Emily Monnig, queen of the May was very popular in the dance last night and bore her honors gracefully. The gate receipts last night panned out well that the Orphaus' Home stands a good chance of a good round sum.

INSPECTING INDIAN SCHOOLS.

A Young Unmarried Woman Doing Good Work for Uncle Sam in the Dakotas-Special to the Gazette.

NEW YORK, May 3 .- The Post's Washington special says: Miss Elane Goodale's work among the Sioux Indians of the two Dakotas in the exercise of her office as supervisor of education, is attracting much attention at the Indian bureau, her communications from the field being wonderfully businesslike, candid and specific in detail. Commissioner Morgan has supplied her with a wagon and camping outlit, as there are no railroads or regular stage conveyances in the country through which her labors carry her, and has bired for her an Indian man to drive and his wife to do the cooking for the party. This makes her entirely independent, and she is busily engaged in inspecting and reporting the condition of the Her territory is large, schools. embracing a greater number of these institutions than any other state or terrifore when the inspection by the government of the private and contract schools was so rigid as now, and the fruits of this careful system are already beginning

Considerable criticism was caused by the choice of a young unmarried woman for supervisory work in this wild Dakota country, but the commissioners whereas such stricture reasoned that might be just where applied to young women in general, one who had already proved her metal as Miss Goodall has. and whose training for her work had been so thorough in all directions, would

The Pushers of Fort Worth Act on the Reliable Adage.

A Board of Trade Organized Which Starts Out Under Favorable Conditions-A Strong Roster-The Old Fort Worth Spirit.

The magnificent board of trade chamber in the magnificent board of trade building was opened yesterday evening for the first time by a gathering which promises to be rich with beneficial results

It was the old spirit of Fort Worth that filled the chamber-the same spirit that made Fort Worth the railroad center of the great state of Texas-that in thirteen years reared a city of 35,000 people where there had been but a few hundred, that has made the name of Fort Worth synonymous with | push and energy throughout the whole country.

There were about seventy-five citizens, all prominent in the city's enterprises, met in obedience to the call to organize a board of trade. The proceedings were harmonious throughout.

When the object of the meeting had been stated by Mr. M. B. Loyd, Major K. M. Van Zandt was elected temporary chairman, and W. M. Bearing, secretary.

The following was read as the report of the committee appointed at the recent meeting held at the Spring Palace office: Mr. CHAIRMAN-We your committee recommend an organization to be called the Fort Worth board of trade, with a board of directors to consist of fifteen members. The officers shall be first. second and third vice president, secretary and treasurer all to be chosen by the directors. J. C. MCCARTRY, [Signed]

It was decided after some balloting to organize on a basis of a board of tifteen directors, who should elect president and vice-presidents, treasurer and executive committee: The following board of directors was

K. M. Van Zandt, Sydney Martin, George Hendricks, Martin Casey, B. B. Paddock, W. L. Malone, T. J. Hurley, J. C. McCarthy, A. W. Caswell, Robt. McCart, T. B. Burbridge, M. B. Loyd, Jere Roche, J. Peter Smith, E. E.

After arranging some details as to the meeting of the board of directors on Monday evening, the meeting was adjourned.

Upon looking over the ballots cast after adjournment had been taken, it was discovered that Mr. H. W. Tallant was discovered that Mr. H. had received a greater number of votes than Mr. E. E. Chase, and the substi-tution of his name on the board of directors will no donbt be made at the next meeting.

The new organization starts out on a solid financial basis, with a determination to make it a success uppermost in the mind of each of the members, and there are indications that its usefulness will be felt in the near future.

It is described as an attempt to sully the honor of a man while at the same time calling him brother.
